

Are you looking to advance your career in education?

Attend a UD Graduate Program Open House

UD's College of Education and Human Development graduate program is consistently ranked as one of the top education programs by U.S. News & World Report.

Our on-campus and online programs integrate classwork with research and extensive field experience to prepare our students to address the most pressing social and educational issues of our time.

Delaware Educators Scholarships and in-state tuition rates are available.

In-Person Open House

Program coordinators will be available to answer your questions regarding the following on-campus programs:

- PhD and MS in Human Development & Family Sciences
- PhD in Education
- PhD in Economic Education
- EdD in Educational Leadership
- MEd in Educational Technology
- MEd in Exceptional Children and Youth
- MA in Teaching English as a Second Language
- MA/EdS in School Psychology
- MA in Early Childhood Development and Programming

Open House: Friday, November 9, 2018

4:15 to 5:15 General information and student panel

5:15 to 6:00 Individual program breakout sessions

007 Willard Hall Education Bldg., 16 W. Main St, Newark

Register: grad-admissions.udel.edu/register/CEHDOpenHouse

Online Info Sessions

UD offers online master's programs in education, allowing you to study, learn and interact with your professors and colleagues--from the comfort of your home.

Learn about our 2-year part-time M.Ed. programs by attending a virtual online information session through interactive web conferencing:

• Exceptional Children and Youth

October 17, 5:30 p.m.

Register: grad-admissions.udel.edu/register/ExcChildrenOnline

• Literacy: October 24, 7:00 p.m.

For more information on our online master's programs visit:
education.udel.edu/masters/online

To learn more or register for these sessions visit: cehd.udel.edu/2018-open-houses

Look for additional Open Houses in January 2018.